THE LATE BATTLE.

We publish, this morning, more circumsta fial accounts of the battle at Fishing Creek, Ky. as we find them in our Nashville and Knoxville orchanges. From the best information we can gather, we incline to the opinion that we have underestimated the force of the enemy, and that the division of Gen. Schoepf had joined Gen Thomas before the battle. If so the whole force of the enemy was near twenty thousand, to oppose which Gen. Crittenden had not more than five or six thousand men.

OUR STRENGTH TO BE TESTED. The recent triumph of Federal arms near Somerset, Kentucky, will naturally have a tendency to embolden the enemy. He has long been hesitating, as is known, about the propri ty of an advance upon our positions at Bowling Green and Manassas. Popular clamor in the North, ever impatient and ungovernable, has demanded that BUELL and McCLELLAN, shall resolution to adjourn on the 3d proximo was ineach respectively, make a "forward move ment" upon these rebel strongholds. Months position was made of it. have been occupied in appointing and equipping their armies, and but a few days since it was announced upon the authority of northern papers that the long expected crisis had arrived, and all was ready for another "On to Richmond" move. Hence it may be possible that the exaggerated reports of CRIPTENDEN'S defeat will inspire the Federal generallisamos with an overweening confidence, and be productive of a fletitious valor that will precipitate one or two tremendous engagements within the next twenty days. It is this feeling of madness and inudicious exultation, for the exhibition of which no previous opportunity has been offered since the war began, that induces the New York Hergid to flatter popular expectation with the droamy delusion that the "rebellion" will be etushed, and peace restored with the blooming of the May flowers next spring.

The latest intelligence from the North, with t our knowledge of the present military situation, indicates strongly that a desperate effort is to be mark: seres days. The United States government of May, 1861.
